- VI. Item 1: Presentation from Oakland Undivided

#Oakland Undivided was created during the pandemic in Mayor Schaff's office first as a response to getting technological devices to all OUSD students. They later expanded as a non-profit addressing the digital divide and digital equity in Oakland in general. Currently there are 36,000 homes in Oakland that don't have access to the internet; their goal is to get 90% of all Oakland homes connected. They presented and led us in an interactive gallery walk discussion on barriers to being online, our vision for the city, what should our schools provide to fit our needs for technology, and how to support their advocacy work. 10 youth commissioners volunteered to continue our advocacy work and submit public comment to three upcoming state meetings on the Broadband for All initiative to secure millions of dollars to Oakland to build accessible and quality internet infrastructure in our most low income neighborhoods to ensure our most vulnerable communities have access for decades to come.
